COUNTRY EDITOR IN PANAMA

Resources Of Tropic Islands

One of the things to be considered is the resources of the islands on the way to the Panama Canal as well as the main lands and the lands to the south. There is no denying the advantages of inter-commerce so far as the United States is concerned but that is not the only thing to consider. The United States is well taken care of in the matter of internal railroads, but our foreign commerce is one that can yet be developed. To the south of us and coming nearer every day, as faster boats are built, are large areas of undeveloped land, capable of producing food stuffs which will go to feed us as we become more densely populated. Our land is practically all taken and as manufacturing increases and population becomes more dense we will have to turn to outside sources for a portion of our food.

Undiscovered Lands.
As yet we have not discovered South America. England, Germany and other European countries are more closely acquainted than we are. I shall have something to say later on this subject. Just now I wish to speak of the one industry which we have developed both as promoters and consumers and that is the banana industry.

The Bananas Industry.
About forty years ago a tramp schooner loaded with fish poles came into Boston harbor with a few bananas on board. They sold so easily that the captain resolved to bring in a whole cargo. It was two years before he got around to it but this time he loaded with green fruit allowing the fruit to ripen on the way. The market thus created has never been supplied. The Island of Jamaica alone sends sixteen million bunches principally to this country and other Central American countries send as many more. The Jamaican banana is the sweetest and most palatable fruit, while the Central American ports export the largest. The industry is mainly in the hands of the United Fruit Company, although a rival concern, the Atlantic Fruit Co. have made considerable headway in the last few years. The great problem on the start was to convince the natives of the desirability of cultivating the fruit. A fruit so common that it grew wild and only was utilized in a limited way as food and to fatten hogs, seemed utterly unfit as a marketable product. Finally the United Fruit Company went into the matter of buying their own land and developing their own plantations. As time went on they grew in importance and branched out into owning railroads and hotels and in fact whole countries. The United Fruit Co. are in these latitudes with the Standard Oil is at home.

The banana industry has the first call in the island of Jamaica. They have the advantage of being two days nearer New York than Central America, their closest rivals, and they further have the most palatable fruit although as above mentioned they are not as large owing to the lighter rainfall. A bunch of bananas when shipped is as green as Irish grass. It looks like a dream of the chlorophyll motion germ. But when it reaches New York it has already begun to turn yellow and in a few days it becomes the banana of commerce. Figured on paper banana culture is one of the most profitable games in the tropics and one has merely to turn to the marvelous success of the United Fruit Company for verification. Also there are individuals in the Island of Jamaica and in all the ports in the tropics who are rolling in wealth and who made their pile out of bananas. Figure from seven hundred to 900 banana trees to the acre and figure the average yield to the tree at from three bunches to five according to the rainfall. There you have a return of two to four thousand bunches per acre. In Honduras where the rainy season is prolonged it is expected that a banana tree will yield five bunches per year. But take the smaller figure. The perfect bunch of bananas the nine hand bunch now brings fifty cents at the wharf, so that figuring the modest yield of two thousand bunches to the acre the revenue is a thousand dollars a year per acre. The item of labor is the best part of it. Wages are from five English shillings per week up to fifty cents per day, this latter being

CHARLES E. HOLT, ESQ., ALFRED MARSTON TRUE

Remarks before Oxford Bar Association by Hon. A. S. Kimball

Your Honor, It has been the custom of Oxford Bar in common with others of this State, upon the passing of one of its honored members to the great beyond, to give public expression of their appreciation of his merits. At a meeting of this Bar at the last term of Court, I was selected along with two of my associates to speak briefly of our late Brother Charles E. Holt, and place our tribute to his memory on record; owing to several seemingly unavoidable circumstances this service had been delayed beyond the usual period, but is now presented with the same feeling of fraternal regard and respect.

Brother Holt after a long and busy life died at the ripe age of seventy-six years. He was born in Fryeburg in this county March 11th, 1835, the son of Joseph Holt, a farmer of that town, where his boyhood was passed with the usual environments surrounding the sons of common country farmers of that time, he was the oldest of a family of nine children. He was educated in the common school and at Fryeburg and Bridgton Academies, studied law with the late Major David R. Hastings of Fryeburg, admitted to this Bar and commenced practice in the town of Denmark in 1861, where he remained twelve years, when he located in Bethel forming a partnership with the late Samuel P. Gibson, which continued about two years, he left Bethel in 1877, coming to Norway and entered the law firm of Black & Holt which continued till the death of Mr. Black, later he formed a partnership with your humble servant under the name of Holt & Kimball which existed alone till 1899, at which time he associated himself with Charles P. Barnes now of Houlton, Maine, which business connection continued till 1906, after which he practiced alone. Mr. Holt was not what would be called an advocate but was diligent in protecting the interest of his clients and his success as a practical business lawyer was fully up to the average, his counsel was regarded as sound, and he had an overpowering passion for books and at the time of his decease his what was probably the best and most extensive law library in this county, and by virtue of the rule that the oldest practicing attorney shall preside he was President of the Bar; in his long professional career the charge of bad faith to his client was never, and could never be laid at his door, for a man could be more faithful.

His influence was felt in the real world of life, being a member of the Board of Directors of the Norway National Bank and its vice president at the time of his decease, he served as publishing officer at the time of the civil war and was Quartermaster's Clerk at City Point, Virginia.

He was married late in life to Miss Lavinia B. Ames of Brunswick. Their mutual devotion and delightful home life was very noticeable, making their home a very pleasant resort for both old and young. Mrs. Holt passing away in October previous to his decease the following March, his last two years of life presented to me at least, a pathetic spectacle, after the dissolution of his last partnership, in his impaired health and particularly after the decease of his wife, in his loneliness he seemed naturally to lean upon me as a former partner to take him over the rough places in practice, finally making me the Executor of his will, opening up and bringing to the surface the sympathetic phase of his character, showing a heart open to the joys and sorrows of those with whom he associated.

Wherefore we submit the following resolution:

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Charles E. Holt, Oxford Bar has lost a member of exemplary habits, generous heart, and a faithful counselor; while the community will miss the force of the correct and upright life which does so much to make for the general good.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It seems fitting that at this time, when days are reverently set apart for the honoring of our soldier dead, this beautiful tribute should be shared with the many who hold dear both him who wrote and him of whom the words are written.

ALFRED MARSTON TRUE.
Can we forget, who knew
That one of Boys in Blue
By name and nature True,
How, while Old Glory flew,
Right proudly in review
He marched his men,—Times few—
Through Bethel streets; then through
The May time beauty to Plant flags and flowers strew
O'er those who God's voice knew
In Lincoln's call, and drew
Vanward, as heroes do?
This wreath we twine for you
Is wet with more than dew,
Friend True and Soldier True.
In our heart's arch of blue
Our flag bespeaks adieu,
Half mast for you—for you.

Israel Jordan.
An extract from a letter to a sister of Mr. True from Mr. Marshall W. Davis of Boston will be we are sure of deep and tender interest to many.

"I have always had the sincerest admiration for the volunteers of '61 and to my mind nothing finer can be said of any man than that he went to the front and fought four years under Abraham Lincoln to maintain the Union. This is your brother's record, a record of which Bethel and all who love the dear old town will always have good reason to be proud.

But how lonesome it grows there for those of us who are left behind! In the summer of 1912, my sister, Emilie and I got the key of Dr. Truell and went alone into our church. As we sat there in our old pews of the sixties, on the side aisle, a long procession of ghostly figures came in and took their accustomed places: David Brown, Josiah Brown, Adams Twitchell, John Russell, Pinckney Barham, Moses Cross, Heaton Grover, Dr. Fanning, Robert Chapman, Frank Chapman, Timothy Barker, Gilman Barker, and all the rest followed by their families till every pew was full. We saw your father walking up the broad aisle and standing at the new door to let the others pass in. The sermon ended, we rose and turned around to face the choir in the gallery and hear them sing the last hymn. Two of them—Charles Barker and Ellen Chapman—we could not have seen more distinctly if they had stood there in the flesh. No cathedral service in Europe ever impressed me half so much. The mystery of it all!"

As the years go by the memory of those early days, when I was reading Virgil and Homer in the old Academy, is like a bit of blue sky near the close of a rainy day."

POWDERY SCAB OF POTATOES.

A Bulletin on This Subject Just Issued by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.

The discovery of powdery scab in Maine has resulted in the Federal Government placing a regulatory quarantine on Maine potatoes. The 1914 crop will be shipped under inspection. Not only for this alone but for his own protection the Maine potato grower should be everything in his power to produce a clean crop this coming season. This does not apply solely to Ansonia County, for while the disease is doubtless rare in other parts of the State very recent discoveries indicate that it is by no means confined to this section.

In Bulletin 227 just issued by the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station an attempt is made to summarize what is known about this disease at the present time, giving special attention to the economic or practical questions involved. Among the topics discussed are: History and distribution, causes, economic importance of powdery scab, diseases which may be mistaken for it, preventive measures and disinfection. The publication is illustrated with several half-tone reproductions of photographs, showing different stages of powdery scab and other diseases which may be confused with it.

A copy of Bulletin 227 will be sent to any resident of Maine upon request to Director Chas. D. Woods, Bangor, Maine. To non-residents of Maine the price is 10 cents which must be sent in coin or other currency. Postage stamps are not accepted.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

It is hoped that all members will be present.

THE BUDGET OF THE HOUSEHOLD.

Miss Lillian Bangall, Instructor in Home Economics, Farmers' Week Course.

The cost of living interests every one, the woman in the home who has never been an earner, but who has spent thousands of dollars, the woman wage earner, and perhaps, more than anyone else, the man wage earner. We are told that the cost of living will never decrease, but will increase, so that it is policy not to spend any time in rebelling against the fact but to spend thought and time on the best expenditure of money. We have to study economy, which is not, as seems commonly to be believed, the spending of as little money as possible, but spending money to the best advantage to live efficient lives.

We are told that seventy-five per cent. of the males of the United States earn less than six hundred dollars annually which is manifestly too small a sum for the rearing of a family. This fact is due to maladjustment which is, we are happy to say, remediable. Investigators who have worked on the problem say that nine hundred to one thousand dollars is the minimum sum on which a man can bring up a family, while Mrs. Bruere places the figure at twelve hundred.

Then what about the seventy-five per cent. who receive less than one half of this? We must conclude that the family is inefficient. Many indignantly protest at being placed in the inefficient class but let us see what the problem of the efficient home is. According to Mrs. Bruere, "It must keep the members of the family in a state of body and mind and happiness that will make it possible for them to work at their highest capacity for the greatest number of years; it must give to the community children that are well fitted for citizenship and equipped to push civilization along; and it must turn out this product on an economical expenditure, not of money only, but of brain and muscle as well."

Then the home where there are no children, the home where there is sickness or inharmoniousness, is inefficient and society pays the price and it pays too high a price when the work of women and children has to supplement that of a man; it pays too high a price when a large portion of it is housed, clothed, warmed and fed below the standard.

It is an encouraging fact that employers are awakening to their responsibility, for is not an employer responsible if he pays below a living wage? But let us consider the expenditure of what we have so that our homes may be as efficient as possible with the means at hand. Devine says, "There is no higher economic function than that of determining how wealth shall be used." And the woman is the chief factor in this consideration.

In order that the business of house-keeping be carried on, it is necessary that the family accept a standard of living and all unite to preserve that standard. The standard must, of course, vary with the individual. If we classify our wants and the means of meeting them, we provide ourselves with a standard which may be studied and improved.

The establishment of a standard budget is made easier by the researches that have been carried on in thousands of families and if one is considering the adoption of a budget plan of living, one of these typical budgets may be used until one's own is established. The majority of people know where each dollar has gone—after it has gone. When incomes were more elastic than they are now, that was the accepted way of keeping accounts. But the times have changed and most people are living on salaries. As Mrs. Bruere says, only by deciding beforehand, what proportion shall be used for fuel, shelter, clothing, etc., can we avoid the rough edges of bankruptcy and carry our families securely toward their particular goals.

Living by a budget is simply making one's needs fit one's income. If there is not a regular known income, a definite minimum income may be used as a basis. The per cent. of the income allowed for each division will depend upon the size of the family and the standard of the family. The usual divisions are Food, Shelter, Clothing, Operating Expenses and Higher Life.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, faints and weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."—Mrs. Josie Ham, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.

New Modern Dancing.

The leading Expert and Instructor in New York City, writes: "Dear Sir:—I have used ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, for the past ten years. It is a blessing to all who are compelled to be on their feet. I dance eight or ten hours daily, and find that ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE keeps my feet cool, takes the friction from the shoes, prevents corns and sore, aching feet. I recommend it to all my pupils." Stomach Trouble; Wholly Restored!

Mrs. Wilson Robinson, 744 Maple St., Toledo, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new person. I have no more heavy feelings, no more pain, don't belch up gas, can eat most anything without it hurting me. I want to be working all the time. I have gained twenty-four pounds."

"People that see me now Mrs. Wilson Robinson, and saw me two months ago seem astonished. I tell them Peruna did it. I will say it is the only remedy for spring and all other ailments."

No argument is needed for Peruna. Just get a bottle and try it. If you have catarrh of the stomach you have a serious trouble. If you want to find a remedy it would be very easy to make the experiment. Before you have taken Peruna a week you will likely find yourself better, than you will find no testimonials on the part of other people, or arguments to convince you. Until you try Peruna, however, all the testimonials in the world and arguments, however logical, will not move you. Just one trial of Peruna will convince you. Persons who object to liquid medicine can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

The Eighth Annual Conference on Taxation will be held at Denver, Colo., Sept. 21, under the auspices of the National Tax Association and the following delegates from the State of Maine will be in attendance: Bertrand C. McIntire of East Waterford, chairman of the Board of State Assessors; W. J. Thompson of South China, former member of the board; and Clement H. Robinson of Portland, clerk of the Special Tax Commission of 1909.

George H. Howe has purchased a lot on a commanding elevation on Pikes Peak, Norway, and has under consideration the building of a fireproof dwelling house. His plans, as partially outlined, are to build entirely of steel, glass and concrete. The doors and windows are to be glass, letting in an abundance of sunlight. The dishes will be of stainless steel as far as the kitchen is concerned, and the house will be electrically lighted. The place will be a model home—almost a "dream" of cleanliness, great windows and other comforts akin to modern science. He plans to use a fireproof boiler and have the heating proposition down to a science.

State geologists are now at work in the State under the direction of Hon. George B. Alexander of Richmond, the secretary of State, investigating the conditions of the automobile law. The geologists are Detective Richard P. Locke of Lewiston, Paul F. Yarnes and Edward E. Rice of Augusta and Fred A. Wheeler of Brunswick. They are each paid $1 per day and expenses. The employment of these inspectors by Secretary Alexander was done at the direction of the Governor and council and the expense will be taken out of the highway fund appropriation.

Imports last month increased over those of April, 1913, but there was a falling off in exports. The Department of Commerce announced April imports aggregated $122,000,000. Domestic exports last month totaled $124,000,000, a decrease of $7,000,000 compared with April, 1913. For a year exports totaled $1,372,474 against $1,370,000 to April, 1913. For ten months ending in April, 1914, imports averaged $1,371,300,000 against $1,374,000,000 last year, and domestic exports $1,374,122,000 against $1,377,000,000 last year.

F. J. CHERNEY & CO., Toledo, O.

A new automatic cancelling machine has just been received at the Augusta post office which was made especially for this office and is probably the only one of the kind in New England. Its installation was really a matter of necessity in order to facilitate the business of the office because of the many different sizes of letters and circulars received from the publishing houses. The machine is adjustable, and can be quickly changed to take any size of letter or circular of any thickness and in many ways is a great improvement over the machine which it superseded. On the day on which the machine was tested 83 ordinary postal cards were put through in 8 seconds with no misses; 230 mixed postal cards in 27 seconds with no misses; 544 mixed postal cards and short letters in one minute with no misses; 264 short thick circulars in 23 seconds with no misses; 394 square circulars in 35 seconds with no misses; 205 short medium circulars in 30 seconds with no misses; 267 heavy long circulars, the most difficult matter to run, in one minute with no misses. This record, which shows the adaptability of the machine to the various sizes and thicknesses of matter, was made by one of the clerks in the office.

Experiments conducted by the United States Bureau of entomology prove that the newly hatched caterpillars of the gypsy moth may be blown, under favorable conditions, a distance of six miles or more. Thus the wind is an important factor in the spread of this destructive pest.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt during his journey through the unexplored regions of Brazil has discovered a tribe of savages hitherto unknown. The tribesmen, who were named Paubates, were completely unclothed.

Continental United States now has a population of more than 90,000,000, while the country, with its possessions, is peopled with more than 100,000,000 persons, the census bureau announced recently. Census experts have calculated that the population of Continental United States on July 1, 1914, will be 97,501,231 against 91,972,266 on April 15, 1910, when the last census was taken. For the United States and its possessions they estimate the population this July will be 109,012,992, compared with 104,745,269 in 1910.

RUMFORD

On Friday evening last a handkerchief shower was given at the home of Mrs. J. E. Wesley Clark on York street in honor of Miss Louise Martin, whose marriage to Mr. George Hutchins is soon to take place. The house was very prettily decorated with hollyhock, wild cherry blossoms, and carnations, the principal amusement of the evening being peanut hunts and games of every description. Miss Martin and Miss Alice Fassett were the lucky winners of the prizes offered. As the time drew near for the guest of honor to receive her handkerchiefs, the entire party were invited into an adjoining room in the bay window of which stood a large bush on which had alighted a number of large yellow crepe paper butterflies. Miss Martin was requested to try her luck at catching some of these creatures, and as her success resulted in the catching of each and every one of them, she found upon a close examination of them that the body of each contained a very dainty handkerchief. Twelve of these useful articles she was found to have at the close of a final count. The company then adjourned to the dining room which was most artistically decorated in hearts, with a large table centre piece of pinks. Here a very delicious lunch of chicken salad, cheese, fish, cake, coffee, bonbons and nuts was served. The guests departed at a late hour, showering Miss Martin with congratulations for a very happy wedding life.

Strength and Endurance
Are factors of the greatest success. No person can do full justice to himself without them.

In no season of the year are they more easily exhausted than in the spring.

We need not discuss the reason for this here. It's enough to say there is one, and that Hoo's Sarsaparilla gives strength and endurance, as thousands annually testify.

WILL HARNESS THE GRAND CANYON.

Ralph H. Cameron, of Phoenix, Arizona, is in Washington, and he has unfolded the greatest plan ever proposed to reclaim any section of the country—for Cameron is going to do nothing less than harness the power of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado; and he has a hydro-electric development project which in comparison makes the Niagara Falls and Keokuk Dam developments look like children's ships in a mud puddle.

Mr. Cameron is the man who built the Bright Angel trail on the rim of the Grand Canyon, and people said it was "Cameron's folly." But that was years ago before the hundreds of thousands of tourists got their first real thrills in life entering Arizona by this only passage way from the north down what has become the most famous scenic route in the world. When the people of Arizona tired of promises of statehood, and wanted "the goods delivered," they sent Ralph Cameron to Congress. He stayed here three years, and at the end of that time he went back home—but not to the home that had been the "Territory of Arizona," but to the "State of Arizona," which he had promised he would secure "the water again ask for political office."

Thirty-two years ago Cameron quit teaching in Hovey's store in Boston, and went to Arizona; where he became one of the first of the sheriffs who have furnished the inspiration which has produced the Arizona desert scene. The difference between the old and the new Arizona is that Ralph Cameron is one of the new men who are single handed and alone, and actually tamed one of the most desperate monsters ever known to the southwest for three weeks through the desert and sage brush, into no man's land, captured and shackled the "Territory of Arizona" and brought him home for trial.

The Interior Department have been expecting Cameron to show up, and it is a good sign that this branch of our government has a welcome on the door mat for live wires who like Mr. Cameron are putting the best brain, brawn, intelligence and money in the country back of reclaiming the southwest for the people who want homes and are willing to work for them.

The Grand Canyon hydro-electric development project has been Ralph Cameron's dream for seventeen years. It means that nearly $50,000,000 will be expended, and that $50,000 horse power will be secured. This wondrous power will be distributed over $500,000 acres of land, and will reclaim most of it, as it has been established that there is an abundance of underlying water, and this will be pumped for irrigation purposes and for mining projects, whose difficulties have been in the lack of power and water. The Roosevelt Dam reclaims 250,000 acres—one-tenth of the Grand Canyon project. The best engineers in the United States have O. K'd the new project, and it seems assured.

LOST—A CONSTITUTION.

Wisconsin has just discovered the fact that it has lost its Constitution—that is to say, the original Constitution was sent to Washington when it was adopted in 1788, and no one discovered until recently that it was missing. The Wisconsin and the National Capitols have been searched with the result that only a copy of document, which is at Madison, has been brought to light. Senator LaFollette has pursued the search through the State Department at Washington, the Congressional Library and the Senate and House files, but has been unsuccessful; and it is now believed that the document found its way into the files of one of the Congressional Committees and probably was destroyed more than half a century ago. Perhaps after all, the Constitution is not important among things.

THE FIERY SENATORS.

It is not because they belong to different parties, but just simple because they do not like one another, that Senators Ashurst of Arizona and Bristow of Kansas "came together" as frequently. Ashurst was making a plea for an appropriation for exterminating the prairie dogs a few days ago, when Bristow suggested that the Arizona senator was prompted by a desire to secure jobs for his constituents. Thereupon Ashurst and such for the language as to stretch the dignity of the Senate. Bristow suggested that the Arizona senator was prompted by a desire to secure jobs for his constituents. Thereupon Ashurst and such for the language as to stretch the dignity of the Senate. Bristow suggested that the Arizona senator was prompted by a desire to secure jobs for his constituents. Thereupon Ashurst and such for the language as to stretch the dignity of the Senate.

INSIST THAT IT CAN BE DONE.

The Administration leaders have not weakened in their demand for a majority of Congress shortly after the first of July. The conviction in the United States Senate, that the only direct track to legislation is through long drawn out discussions before committees and the Senate itself, has been shocked, and some of the senators are rather resentful of a plan which boils down simply means that the Senate must be rushed. The theory of the Administration men is that with the carrying out of the proposed legislative program the case of the Democratic bill of party can be put up to the people of opinion as ever about the Colonel.

the country in midsummer. According to the Wilson idea, the voters will be obliged to do justice to the Administration and therefore return a Democratic Congress. Of course the Republicans and Progressives figure it out altogether differently—but you must remember that they are the minority in Washington, and have to be satisfied with the leavings. In many instances this comfort has been disturbed by the noise of the steam roller.

THE POWER OF NIAGARA.

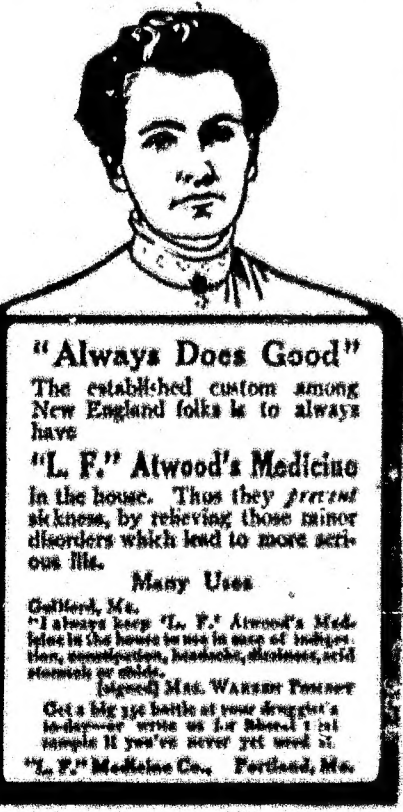

As great as is the power of Niagara Falls as a water power proposition, the scenic greatness of Niagara surpasses its commercial value. For years there has been a battle between the government and those who would carry off the "whole works" if they were permitted to do so, in order to run electro-chemical interests. One of the best authorities in the country has declared that the water now thundering over Niagara represents the equivalent of 1,000,000 tons of coal a week, and in a year's time one-tenth of the entire coal consumption of the United States. This authority does not endorse the conservation of scenery. He says the government policy at Niagara is nothing short of criminal waste. The United States government has been quite ready to "split the difference" with the men who want the water power of Niagara, but Uncle Sam is wise enough to know that unless he holds on tight that the water power interests will be very likely to about everything that looks like scenic beauty over discharging commercial water wheels.

DENIES WITHDRAWAL OF PATRONAGE.

There are a few Democrats who lament over the traces of Administration politics, and among them was Senator Bristow of Louisiana, who left President Wilson on the tariff bill an amount of free agar. For many weeks a report has been going round that the President with all patronage from the Louisiana Senator in consequence of his revolt. Bristow says there is not a word of truth in the yarn, and since Louisiana people are back at the head of the Presidential gamut, they no doubt find comfort while playing the fears of Senators Walsh of Montana, O'Gorman of New York, and other Democrats who declare that consistency makes it necessary for them to oppose the President's position in reference to Panama tolls.

WANT NICK AND ALICE BACK.

If Washington has anything at all to say about the selection of a Congressman from Hamilton County, Ohio, it might be conceded in view of the fact that the Honorable Nicholas Longworth has received the Republican nomination, that if father-in-law will only be reasonable and not insist that a strong Progressive enter the race, long out of the proposed legislative program the case of the Democratic bill of party can be put up to the people of opinion as ever about the Colonel.
